Courage. Encouraged.

This community report is a photo essay collection celebrating the outstanding work done by the Glenrose Rehabilitation Hospital and its exemplary team of physicians, nurses and rehabilitation specialists. Most importantly it is a celebration of patients and their families who inspire us all to continue pushing the boundaries.

Our pediatric patients thrive on innovations like our virtual bike that blends an exercise cycle with a Wii. Donor dollars made this simple idea a reality. We know the possibilities are endless.

New York Times best-selling author and world renowned game designer Dr. Jane McGonigal was the keynote speaker at the Glenrose's annual Spotlight on Research Breakfast. She validated our continued leadership in applying game-design principles to create solutions for our challenges. Winners of our 'What If' Contest thought of a portable swallowing rehabilitation game & app to offer patients precise visual feedback and an interactive portal engaging family, care team members and patients in achieving their goals.

Ralph and Gay Young, 2013 Courage Gala Honorary Chairs, gave life to our mission. They inspired our inaugural Circle of Courage and 54 donors joined them, exceeding all goals and enabling the Glenrose to offer the latest eye gaze system, plus a therapeutic bike for kids, an oral scanner for dental clinic patients and brain stimulator for stroke survivors.

Rob Boulton, pictured here, helped raise funds for the eye gaze system. While he passed away on May 26, 2014 after living courageously with ALS since 2010, his legacy will live on as we honour his mantra: We all die. The goal isn't to live forever, the goal is to create something that will.

faces of courage

Encouraging our patients in the fight they so bravely face each day is about a special kind of heroism. The following journeys embody the dedication, perseverance and courage exhibited along thousands of rehabilitation journeys each day. We exist to support Glenrose patients and the talented interdisciplinary teams that support them as they strive for independence. Ultimately, donor generosity gives their courage strength.

Alison sets bold goals and has a clear vision. Her journey began at the young age of 3 ½ when she was diagnosed with dermatomyositis. With her mom as a dedicated hero and many good friends, she has successfully published two novels, has written, produced and casted a play and continues to seek ways to create lead characters with a disability as positive role models for children and a source of hope for many.

Ayden not only survived two strokes at the young age of 10, his inner strength led him to relearn walking and eating independently two separate times in just four short months. He was so determined to talk that he refused the option to write during his intense speech and language sessions, knowing that if he said it over and over he would improve, be understood and progress. Ayden also designed his own obstacle courses. His perseverance is truly the ultimate example of courage, encouraged.

Katherine, Bill, Katelyn, Alyssa & Kirstin Lomax gave us a glimpse of how life looks when preemie twins join the world weighing just 680 and 510 grams. The Glenrose has supported them in achieving many milestones and their tenacity and spirit warms our hearts.

Elmer has filled his life with adventure. Farm hand, wrestler, painter, golfer, police officer, teacher, loving husband, father and friend. And the list goes on. After suffering a hemorrhaging stroke at the age of 78 Elmer re-learned how to speak, swallow, write, walk – literally every daily function many of us take for granted. He successfully achieved his goal of returning home to support his wife by embracing all therapies, even devising leg lift exercises to the tick of the clock and eagerly using our CAREN virtual reality treatment system. Courage comes in many forms, regardless of age.

Scott is a long time Edmontonian, successful salesman and Jujitsu student. He was brutally attacked, sustaining a traumatic brain injury and nearly lost his life. He dedicated thousands of hours to physical & occupational therapy, speech & language sessions, and countless specialist appointments to ensure he would return home to his wife and daughters age 6 and 2, where he continues his journey. He hopes to impart to his daughters that superheroes are not people who jump over tall buildings in a single bound – they are people who open their hearts to others when they are not as strong as they could be.

Dave was living life as a successful entrepreneur with a great love of hockey when a collision at centre ice during a rec game left him paralyzed. He was at the Glenrose for many months, persisting through countless hours of therapies and exercises. He proudly walked out of the Glenrose to return home to his fiancé and encouraged Courage Gala attendees to help the Glenrose become even better.
